

How can I teach more successfully in English?

Termin: 15./16.05.2018

Zeit/Dauer: 9-17 Uhr

Ort: Sitzungszimmer des Rektorats (Karlsplatz 13, 1040 Wien, 1. OG)

Trainer_in: John Waterman, avocets consulting

Kategorie: Spezialthemen der Hochschuldidaktik

Gruppengröße: up to 14 participants

Zielgruppe: This two-day workshop is specially designed to support teachers and researchers in universities whose first language is not English and who are, or may be required to deliver degree programs and/or present research in English.

Ziele:

Participants will...

- be able to communicate more effectively in English with students and colleagues.
- feel more confident when using English in lecture and seminars.
- improve their English language competencies and recognise areas that need further development.
- understand their students better and support them more effectively.
- increase their range of strategies and activities to engage students.
- take part more confidently in professional activities in English.

Inhalt:

- What is English as a Medium of Instruction (EMI) and how can teachers and researchers use it with confidence when interacting with students and colleagues?
- What challenges do academics and students face in an EMI programme?
- Developing classroom management skills, with emphasis on the meta-language of the classroom and checking comprehension
- Presentation skills: sign-posting language, explaining and exemplifying
- Creating presence through voice, body language and gesture
- Communicating effectively: being clear and concise, checking understanding and clarifying meaning
- Improving pronunciation: sounds, intonation, developing the voice and managing delivery

Methoden:

- Participant focused and interactive
- Group-, pair- and individual work
- Problem solving, simulations, role-plays and discussions

Kosten für Mitarbeiter_innen anderer Universitäten: 350 €